BRIG. GEN. JOHN H. MICHAELIS
Korean War Hero and Former Commander of the 27th Infantry Regiment

"He'll either be a general or a dead colonel", quipped GIs last summer about the 38-year-old West Pointer whose 27th Infantry (Wolfhound) Regiment -- better known as "The Fire Brigade" -- had helped hold the Pusan perimeter. Still very much alive and now a Brigadier General by battlefield promotion, John Michaelis will be welcomed by the OPC next week at his only public appearance in New York.

The twice-wounded holder of the D.S.C. for "extraordinary heroism" under fire leaves shortly to join the Paris staff of General Eisenhower, whom he once served as aide. General Michaelis and Lt. Arnold J. Lapiner, wounded veteran of the 2nd Division, will speak to the Club on the guerrilla tactics which successfully countered Red infiltration attacks in Korea.

Don't miss this exclusive report from the man most familiar with hand-to-hand fighting in Korea. -- (PLEASE SEE PAGE 2 FOR AN ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE JUNE 6 LUNCHEON!)

Fifty copies of the German translation of "As We See Russia", the OPC's book project for 1949, have been received at Club Headquarters and will be presented to the first fifty Club Members requesting them. Priority will be given, however, to Members who contributed to the book. German title is "Die Russische Sphinx".

ANNUAL DINNER WAS SUCCESS,
CHAIRMAN JOSEF DINE INFORMS
MEMBERS; THANKS CO-WORKERS

The 12th Annual Awards Presentation Dinner, held May 16 in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel, was "a real success", according to Dinner Chairman JOSEF C. DINE. Consensus of the Members was that DINE and his Committee had arranged one of the most outstanding Dinners in Club history. "We all owe JO and his aides a rising vote of thanks and congratulations," President JOHN DALY said this week, "for presenting such an interesting and entertaining program, and for handling all other details in such an efficient manner."

Meanwhile, Chairman DINE credited the success of the Dinner to his Committee, citing for special praise "PATRICIA LOCHRIDGE, GERALDINE SARTAIN, LOUIS LOCHNER and HENRY GELLERMANN. I am especially grateful to them."

 * THIS SATURDAY IS DEADLINE *
 * FOR PAYMENT OF 1951 DUES, *
 * TREASURER REMINDS MEMBERS *
 *****

This Saturday -- May 26 -- is deadline for payment of 1951 Overseas Press Club dues, Secretary-Treasurer JOSEPH J. WURZEL announced this week. The announcement climaxed a series of "gentle nudges" which have appeared in The Bulletin during past weeks, he said. "This is the last time", WURZEL asserted, "that we shall make a general appeal for payment of dues." The names of those who have failed to remit dues within a month after the Annual Meeting (held April 26) will be reported to the next meeting of the Board of Governors, according to a provision in the By-Laws (Article IX, Section Two).

For the benefit of Members who have misplaced their original notifications, the official dues schedule follows: Active Members--$20; Associate Members--$30; Guest Members--$30. Checks should be made payable to the Overseas Press Club of America, and addressed to 1475 Broadway, New York 18, N.Y.

PRESIDENT HAILS ANNUAL DINNER
AS PROOF OF PROFESSIONAL SUPPORT;
ENCOURAGES INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP

Overwhelming professional support of the Overseas Press Club program, as demonstrated by last week's Annual Dinner, was hailed today by President JOHN DALY as proof of the value of OPC membership. "Never before have so many professional journalists attended an Annual Dinner," President DALY said. "That is real evidence that more and more working newsmen consider membership in the OPC desirable and indispensable."

President DALY also reported that the Club's Membership Committee, chairwomaned by Miss GERALDINE SARTAIN, is planning a concerted effort to invite even more qualified candidates to apply for Club affiliation. He reminded Members that Club Headquarters recently published a brochure, "The Overseas Press Club Story", which outlines the history, aims and activities of the Club. These pamphlets, he said, are now available for distribution to prospective members.

Members who have friends or associates with foreign news experience are therefore invited to propose them for Club membership, President DALY said. Application forms and copies of the "OPC Story" will be sent Members or interested persons upon request to Club Headquarters.
